TESTIMONIALS

One of the most profound realisations is that my body holds so much wisdom, and these practices to deeply connect to my body are so important for processing my emotions and understanding myself. Deeply connecting with my body and the practices and experience Erin had created has helped me release emotional blockages and connect to my body and other women more deeply and a safe space to feel seen and heard. After being in this space with Erin, I now feel more grounded and in tune with my emotions and my body.

Being in the temple space with Erin was an incredible experience. What I loved most about her is her ability to create such a safe, nurturing, and sacred space. She has this deep, wise, intuitive presence that made me feel truly seen, supported, and empowered, even though at times I felt resistant to showing up, I always left with the awareness of how much showing up and doing the work in this space has impacted me and was so necessary for my growth.

What I loved about working with Erin

How open and transparent she is. I can see that Erin holds herself and her temple space in very high regard. I really feel that Erin is a permission piece for other women to tap into all things sacred sex. Her shame-less-ness nature and willingness to 'go first' allows women to feel safe and to open up. Erin also has an array of knowledge on all things womb and woman, and these wisdoms are weaved through all of the work she does. Erin shares her real life experiences in ways that I feel are relatable, I enjoy learning from her.

TESTIMONIALS

One significant transformation or insight I gained from this experience is that I am capable of using my voice and deeply surrendering. That there are tools out there to make intimate settings and experiences powerful and full of consent. That our bodies know what they want and are always sending us messages on what is right for us.

After working with Erin, I now feel more In tune, more curious and more excited to learn the arts of kundalini, tantra, the wheel of consent and de-armouring. I would recommend Erin to anyone who desires to journey deeply with themselves and their bodies. Anyone who wants to reclaim their power and zest for life. Anyone who felt disconnected from their wombs or cocks who now desires to journey deeply back home.

My transformation.....

Coming to understand my own Eros, and how to manage/maintain/contain it, deep discoveries about my desires and learning to take myself to all time highs through self pleasure practices (which has gotten me so in touch and connected with/to my own body) and a reclamation of personal power through pleasure and pussy. A powerful unlocking and/or activation of my more erotic nature which is evidently inter-connectedly, touching all other things in my life.

TESTIMONIALS

I would recommend Erin to...

Any woman who feels to get in touch with herself in this way. Women who feel disconnected from their body/sex or women who would like to enquire/address their own sexual energy/eros. I would also recommend Erin to couples who are looking to deepen in their intimacy practices.

What surprised me the most about this experience was...

How much I feel like I have changed through this process. I feel like a lot of things have already, and will continue to come from this experience. As I continue to grow and expand and reach possibilities that I previously didn't believe I could. It surprises me how much our sexuality/sex feeds into every thing we do as women.

The tools are practices Erin shared with me in temple will help me..

To have a safe, healthy, and intimate connection to sex. To understand my wants and needs and to voice them, to boundary set and seek consent; to own my sexuality and my pleasure and to use that creative life force energy to build my life.
